

Teaching with Technology July - Blogs

Good Blog Sites For Education

- www.blogger.com - Google's site offering free blog hosting. Go to the Bloggers Feature page to get started.
- www.weblogg-ed.com - Will Richardson's blog. Will is an author on web tools for classrooms (K to 12). Here is the link to Will's resources on blogging: <http://supportblogging.com/Links+to+School+Bloggers>
- edublogs.org - Edublog is used by universities. "Edublogs lets you easily create & manage student & teacher blogs, quickly customize designs and include videos, photos & podcasts - it's safe, easy and secure so try out an Edublog today!"
- www.21classes.com - 21Classes lets teachers set up and manage a multi-user blog solution with independent blogs for students instantly and easily.

Informative Blogs By Experts In Their Field

- sethgodin.typepad.com - Seth is a smart guy and has written riffs on marketing, respect, and the ways ideas spread.
- blog.ted.com - TED stands for Technology, Entertainment and Design. If you don't know about this blog or website, you need to find out about this wonderful source of cutting edge information.
- www.jamieoliver.com/about/jamie-oliver-blog - The Naked Chef's blog

For further reference:

- ProBlogger - How to Blog: Blogging Tips for Beginners
<http://www.problogger.net/archives/2006/02/14/blogging-for-beginners-2/>
- Blog - definition and resources
<http://www.marketingterms.com/dictionary/blog/>
- 11 advantages of using a blog for teaching
<http://www.slideshare.net/frankcalberg/11-advantages-of-using-a-blog-for-teaching>
- The Good Blogging Guide
<http://blogs.msdn.com/ukschools/pages/the-good-blogging-guide.aspx>

Get Started Now!

You can find live links to this information on the CTL website:

<https://shpt.rdc.ab.ca/sitecollections/ctl/default.aspx>

Then go to: